I am currently looking for stable company in order to begin my career as a developer. My goal is to become self sufficient developer in Front-end and Back-end development. I am always eager for more knowledge and self improvement, with a goal of becoming extremely proficient at what I do! I have solid social and communication skills when working in a team. Ability to predict and develop new creative solutions. Ability to create a well organized plan in order to tackle any objectives before a certain deadline and ability to withstand the pressure of close deadlines. Ability to be flexible and adapt quickly to any new environments and different conditions. Always trying to improve and eager to learn something new!
